Dermodality Proprietary Technologies

The water-sealing technology found within Dermodality products provides a unique combination of pure and refined potent key actives, along with the lightweight yet hydrating, and moisture-expanding ingredients. Formulas that are carefully incorporated into a perfected Dermodality proprietary process (unlike anything on the market today) result in critical water-sealing nourishment which will protect against environmental conditions and aging, alongside the overall complexion correction of the skin.

Ingredients: In effect, almost 100% of our active ingredients originate from nature and are pharmaceutically isolated and clinically proven. We search the world over to provide vegan friendly, paraben-free and gluten-free ingredients that are derived from marine and plant-based sources. For example, one of the key ingredients found in many of our moisture enhancing products is a blend of lipophilic molecules found in green and brown microalgae. These organisms are harvested from extreme oxidative environments and are then reproduced in closed biotechnology conditions to preserve their natural integrity. Liposomes are then used to encapsulate these molecules to optimize intracellular delivery. Another extremely important component to this lipophilic complex is plankton. When used in a concentrated form, plankton seals transepidermal water at the skin's surface. The end result is a product that maximizes water retention while producing a weightless feel.

Exosomes: These nano-sized cargo carriers are the messengers of the body. Their capsule is made of the same lipid-containing membrane as the body's cells. They work by merging with the cell wall and releasing their payload intracellularly. Receptors located on the outside of their membrane are like GPS units that direct these exosomes to their specific cellular targets, which are often damaged and deficient cells. Our Revitalizing Super Serum contains millions of exosomes, making this product extremely effective in the correction of intracellular damage, resulting in healthier skin.

Nourish and condition your skin with our proprietary blend of non-greasy formulas that provide HOURS on HOURS of hydration.

Achieving the highest level of skin-conditioning is, at the very core, Dermodality's ultimate goal; hence, our intentional choosing of the name "Dermodality" – the functional process of the skin. This skin-conditioning mentality is what we call our Dermodality "DNA". Skin conditioning allows the professional to take complete control over each individual client's skin conditions and concerns by building, correcting and maintaining skin health for every Fitzpatrick. Proper skin conditioning gives the professional the ability to perform advanced resurfacing in-office treatments on all skin types and conditions. We accomplish this by taking the progressive approach, building tolerance and integrity of the skin as a whole. Treatments which would normally be considered "aggressive" and painful are now well tolerated, therapeutic and customized per the individual, where the esthetician has full control and complete confidence in the expected outcome of results.

We condition the skin with a series of our BASE1 AHA hybrid peels ALONG WITH active medical-grade targeted treatment serums within the customized home care regimen. These are all based on the individual's Fitzpatrick and skin's sensitivity levels.

MODIFIED FITZPATRICK SCALE

Home Care Guidelines

All home care products are designed to work in a synergistic manner to enhance the corrective properties of one another.

Due to the level of correction our treatment serums can achieve, they may occasionally cause sensitivity to the skin as the skin works to build tolerance toward the high percentages of active ingredients. If this happens, it is recommended to create customized “cocktails” by mixing serums and moisturizers together as a way to “dilute” the formula concentration and pH level for slower absorption. This will allow the skin to gradually acclimate to the active ingredients.

If multiple treatment serums are utilized in a daily regimen, the order of application will always be thinnest to thickest in texture; applied after cleansing/toning and before moisturizing.
